assistance to the foundation by reinforcing the reception, food service and preparation for the salad bar, fruit shake bar, bread and noodle stations during the food fest. At least 100 students, faculty and staff will be working for free in four shifts for seamless operations in the kitchen and food and beverage service.

In addition to the culinary showcase, Enderun student Katrina Padilla will be introducing exotic Cuban cuisine. People will also have a chance to taste the culinary genius of chef See who will be manning a noodle and dim sum stand.

Do not let their Swiss precision and professionalism fool you into thinking that they are all business because this school definitely has a heart. All the profits from the food stalls which Enderun will be managing during the event will go to I Can Serve. Beth Romualdez is so optimistic about success of this event because of the uniqueness of bringing together all these different chefs not have formal outlets in Manila serving signature dishes all under one roof.

"Pink Kitchen" will sell entrance ticket event at P200 for adults and P100 for child ticket proceeds will go to I Can Serve, conducts high impact information campaign breast cancer awareness and provides financial assistance for breast cancer patients in the city. Visit its website at www.icanserve.net for the introduction of chefs who will cook for "Pink Kitchen."

Better still, just go to the Rockwell Tent 11 and 12 and savor the goodies of all these geniuses. It is after all, for a very good cause.
